For President, A. D. 1844, MES G. BIRNEY, JAMES G. BIR OF MICHIGAN. For Vice Presiden

Were the people of the free States aware of the extent of the evils brought upon the coun-try by that slavery cursed District, they would the nation. Licentiousness scarcely seeks concealment or disguise. Indeed, nil the mor-al effects of slavery there develope themselves in the beart of the country, and are rendered most permicious by being arrayed in the gor-genus trappings of rank, beauty, fashion, pride ficult to estimate the extravagance and wast of the nation's money continually taking place. But little short of two millions of del of the nation place. But filled short of two millions of tars is annually expended in that District Although at the hend of ship navigation the Potomae, and possessing every natu and political advantage, which, hall it been for slavery, would have secured to prosperity perhaps unequalled by any of maritime cities, yet always is there—and in the property of the property of the property perhaps unequalled by any of maritime cities, yet always is there—and in

The next object was to obtain the $1,500, 10 loan, which he cities were authorized to feet. Application was made to Messey, flar, fleet. Application was made to Messey, flar, fleet. Application was made to Messey, flar, fleet, and Co., in Localon, and Mr. and the second of the Tensary, wrote several long and plausible letters, (not efficial, but in the approximation of the Presiden) to create them to great the loan. He represented them to great the loan. He represented their population, from the second to the propulation, from saying how any of them were slavest the assecued their population, from saying how any of them were slavest the assecued value propulation, from saying how any of them were slavest the assecued value profit that the great statement of the second value profit that the great statement is the second value of the se namy of them were slaves) the assessed value of their property, their prosperity than the government was bound to see it paid, and for it had a fine on onall their property—that of all other methods failed the government could and would be bound in honor 16 pay (Lieunesderr) and this was no doubt the way really intended. Senue Doc. 1st. Ses. 24th Coogress, vol. 2.—The Berings obtained the money is Holland, took the loan, and the work went on.

But in 1836 the feelings of Congress had schanged respecting the outprise, and especially the participation of the government in it, the times changed, the interest was not pand; and the creditors called on the Preasury Department. The President was unwilling to put all the property of the District under the hammer and the subject was brought by petition of the cities before Congress, and was referred to a committee of which John Tyler was charman. He reported that the memorialists were "desinitue of relief" and were outher "verge of irretrievable hankrupery.—

To expost the errors into which they may have failen would be to inflict womands where clief is proyed for." The committee did "and deen it necessary to eather upon the merits of the claim urged on Congress," but recommended at hill for the relief of the cities, thief.
